

Abstract of the Disclosure

A trap with a residence time at least equal to one complete cycle time of an atomic layer deposition (ALD) process traps the gaseous effluent from a reaction chamber and reaction products before the effluent can enter a backing pump. The trap may be connected directly to the reaction chamber 5 or indirectly through a process pump. The trap is advantageously used in atomic layer deposition processes.